Automated Income Machine (AIM): the affiliate training I personally use and recommend.

Affiliate Disclosure

I'm an independent affiliate for PromptEarn and for the AIM (Automated Income Machine) course created by Martins Osimen. If you register through the links in this report, I earn a commission at no extra cost to you. I only recommend platforms and products I have personally used and been paid by — proof is included throughout this report.

Disclaimer

Everything in this report is based on my personal experience and results actually achieved on the PromptEarn platform. Individual results vary — how much you make depends on your effort, consistency, and the product you choose to promote. Nothing here is financial advice, and this is not an investment, MLM, or referral scheme.

You are not permitted to impersonate Ekemena Prince or claim to represent me.

Hello,

Thank you for picking up this report. This is a short, honest breakdown of how affiliate marketing actually works in Nigeria today — built around the everyday questions I get asked about making money online.

A quick note before you start: this report assumes you're new to making money online. If you already know the answer to a question, skip ahead to the next one.

1. Who are you, and why should I listen to you?

My name is Ekemena Prince — "Mr President" — founder and mentor of the 7 Figure Digital Creators Online Family (7FDCOF). I coach people across Africa on digital product creation, social media monetization, and building real passive income online, using nothing but a smartphone and consistency.

A few years ago I was earning next to nothing online. Curiosity led me down the affiliate marketing rabbit hole — trial, error, and a lot of hustle later, I'd figured out how to generate income on every major social platform without needing capital, a laptop, or a large following.

This report is one small part of that: a specific, proven way for you to start earning online this month. Stay with me to the end.

2. Can I legitimately make money online from the comfort of my home?

Yes — but let's be clear about what this is, and what it isn't, so you go in with the right expectations.

This is NOT: an investment scheme, a Ponzi structure, forex or crypto trading, network marketing/MLM, or anything that requires you to recruit people under you.

This IS: a business model you run yourself, on your own schedule, promoting real digital products for a real commission. If you already run an online business, the same skills can meaningfully grow your existing sales too.

3. What exactly is this business model?

It's affiliate marketing — you earn a commission by promoting other people's or companies' digital products. You recommend a product, someone buys through your link, and you get paid a percentage of that sale.

Here's a simple illustration from my own experience selling cars: when a car owner wants to sell, they'll often offer a 3–5% commission to anyone who brings a buyer. I connect a buyer I know to a seller I know, the sale happens, and I get paid — without owning the car or handling logistics.

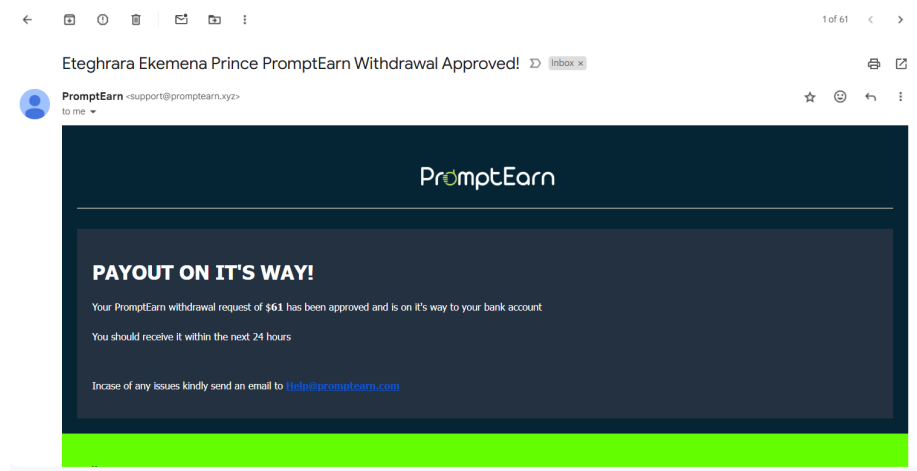

Affiliate marketing works the same way, except entirely online, with digital products, and without needing an existing network. I'll show you how to sell to people who've never met you — cold traffic — because that's where the real volume is.

4. How does the affiliate model actually work, step by step?

I promote products through PromptEarn, an affiliate platform built for the Nigerian market. It carries digital products across niches — making money online, health & wellness, business, entrepreneurship — created by the product owners themselves.

International platforms like ClickBank exist too, but many Nigerian affiliates face payout and verification restrictions on them. PromptEarn was built to solve that specific problem, with local, weekly payouts.

Commission on a single product typically runs 30–80%, depending on the product. Products are digital, so buyers get instant access and you get instant commission — no shipping, no stock, no customer service.

5. What is the AIM (Automated Income Machine) course, and why do you recommend it?

AIM is a step-by-step training program by Martins Osimen that teaches you how to sell digital products online — including with zero existing audience or contacts. It's the specific program I point my own students to, because it's the most complete, current training I've found for this exact model.

It covers product selection, building a simple marketing vehicle for whatever you're promoting, and organic traffic strategies for WhatsApp, TikTok, and other platforms. Commissions on products sold through the platform are paid weekly, every Sunday.

6. I have no audience or contacts — how would I even sell?

You don't need one. AIM teaches you to convert cold traffic — people who've never heard of you — using organic content and simple marketing funnels built for WhatsApp, TikTok, and Instagram. Most of the people you'll sell to will never know you personally, which actually makes it easier, not harder.

7. Is this a scam, and could it "crash"?

No. Affiliate marketing is one of the oldest, most legitimate online business models — it isn't tied to recruitment, doesn't require you to "bring people to pack money," and doesn't collapse the way Ponzi structures do, because it's built on real product sales, not new sign-ups.

Affiliate marketing is the process where people can earn a commission by promoting an organization's products or services. It's a performance-based advertising channel in which businesses have to pay a predetermined commission for every affiliate conversion made.

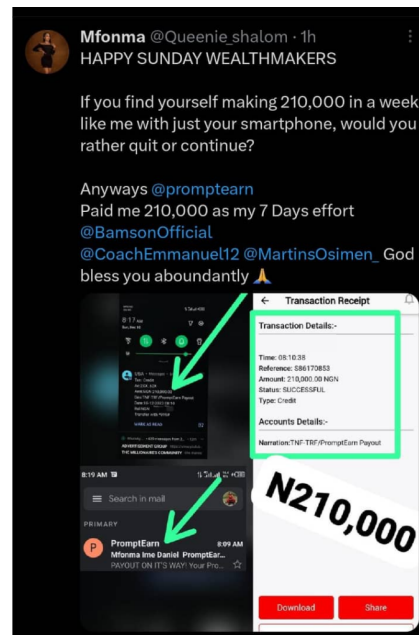

8. Do I need a laptop?

No — a decent smartphone is enough to get started.

9. How much can I realistically make in a week or a month?

It depends entirely on the time you put in. I personally spend about an hour a day on this alongside my other businesses. Based on results from students who commit 30 minutes to an hour daily and actually implement the training, a realistic weekly range is ~~N~~30,000–~~N~~200,000, depending on the product and effort — with commissions of 30–80% per sale.

No product creation required. You can start promoting immediately, every product on the platform is vetted, and it runs alongside whatever else you're already doing.

10. What do I need to get started?

- A decent smartphone or laptop
- 30 minutes to 1 hour a day, following the training
- ~~N~~20,000 to register for the AIM course, which includes a free PromptEarn affiliate account

11. Is ~~N~~20,000 too expensive?

Compare it to the alternative: years and millions spent on a degree that, for many graduates, still leads to a ~~N~~100,000/month 9-to-5. AIM is a one-time cost for training designed to teach you a skill you can use to build income on your own terms — the screenshots throughout this report are real students' results using it.

12. I'm shy, and I'm not a natural salesperson — is that a problem?

No. Selling is really just persuasion — the same skill you use in a job interview, a salary negotiation, or pitching an idea to a room. If you can do any of those, you can do this. And because most of your buyers online will never meet you in person, shyness genuinely isn't a barrier here the way it might feel offline.

13. What if I don't make money?

You get access to a support and accountability community of other students, so you're not figuring this out alone. As long as you're active in the group and following the training consistently, you have people to troubleshoot with.

14. I've failed at things like this before — what if it doesn't work for me?

Business coach Brian Tracy describes the Law of Cause and Effect: success isn't random, it proceeds from specific, repeatable causes. When you do what other successful people in a field do, you tend to get the results they get. AIM works the same way for anyone who follows the training and stays engaged with the community — not because of who you are, but because of what you do.

15. Okay, I'm in — how do I get started right now?

Two steps:

1. Register for AIM and your free PromptEarn affiliate account through the link below.
2. Message me on WhatsApp with the word "REGISTERED" and a screenshot, so I can add you to the support group.

>> Message me on WhatsApp <<

What's included when you register:

- Access to the AIM training program
- A free PromptEarn affiliate account
- A support and accountability group for newcomers
- WhatsApp and TikTok organic traffic playbooks

What motivates you, Ekemena?

Connection. Watching everyday people build real digital product creation and social media monetization skills, then turn that into genuine passive income online, is what keeps me doing this. It's part of why I built the 7 Figure Digital Creators Online Family — to help young Africans see what's possible and actually get there.

Thank you for reading this report all the way through. Feel free to reach out if you have questions.
